The sky can sometimes look enormous at 'The Point' and the new Dining Room extension is a glorious place to eat while enjoying the view - especially at sunset.

The recently-restored Point Lookout is a special place to sit and enjoy the scenery close-up, or enjoy a quiet read away from the family.

The grounds of The Point are colourful year-round, and are managed to encourage the variety of wild flowers and wild-life.

Part of The Point is SSSI because it is one of the few un-grazed areas of coastal heathland on Anglesey - and choughs nest here.

This very private little bay is SSSI because of the rare seaweed and the rock exposures. It is also a handy place to launch canoes!

This part of the garden is flat and firm enough for guests' helicopters to land safely - and the RAF's too in an emergency!

A unique feature for a holiday house, the Lookout is approached by wild-flower-decked stone steps and a grassy path from one of The Point lawns. Just beyond the Lookout is the old Point Landing Stage, now quietly eroding away but still handy occasionally. A real 'Get away from it all' retreat, the Lookout was restored in 2010 after half a century as a ruin.

The Point is a first-class base for sailing, water-skiing, diving, swimming, canoeing, golf, riding, walking, birdwatching, relaxing on the beach, having fun with the kids, or just taking it easy with a book.
